About Greenpacket

Extending new horizons for limitless freedom!

At Greenpacket, we understand that connectivity is the keystone of every activity involving your customers. And for you, increasing revenue means everything. For a decade now, our leading edge connectivity products and solutions have helped Telco's, ISP's and WiMAX Operators around the world stay competitive, retain and build loyal customers and increase ARPU.

We have forged invaluable strategic alliances in the telecommunications industry for a stronger ecosystem, all the while building an international, reputable brand and a robust business.

Greenpacket began its operations in San Francisco's Silicon Valley, well known as the birthplace of modern day information technology. While Silicon Valley continues to host our main research centre, Greenpacket's visionary management also recognised the emergence of Asia as a growing market hence Malaysia, a nation that takes pride in its strategic east-meets-west location, was chosen as our global headquarters.

To further strengthen our R&D efforts, we established a strong foothold in Taiwan, which is a leading hub for the emergence of new developments in 4G (particularly WiMAX and LTE). On the software front, we chose China which is one of the countries reputed for its undisputed expertise in software development.

As for our people, Greenpacket has one of the most experienced teams in the wireless broadband industry. We share the desire to push the boundaries of innovation and technological advancement. We see a future of limitless freedom in wireless communications with newer, better and faster solutions.
